

Boost Your Enrollments!

Molly Corbett Broad, of the American Council on Education said about the downturn in the economy, “...it will be tough, but remember, tough times don't last; but tough institutions do!” Education has been tapped as the driver of economic development, growth and prosperity. In this tight economic climate of education in California, promote your most popular programs; ones you know will fill or be easy to expand, due to demand. Consider these tips to help boost enrollments by marketing your school, your brand and your students for your programs:

- 1. Plan activities to promote your courses! Have an open house or information session with a presentation on your most popular courses or with mini-seminars or tables set up with instructors answering questions for the courses that you offer. Call Boston Reed College at 800.201.1141 for ideas or information on how to get started!
- 2. Encourage your staff, faculty and students to use social networking sites such as Facebook, Twitter, MySpace and others.
- 3. Know your audience and target your message to your audience. Baby boomers have different values than Gen X'er's. Make your message hit the mark with value propositions directed to what's important to them.
- 4. Consider words and themes in your messages. Even if you don't publish a catalog, consider using tag lines that inspire and encourage.
- 5. Share success with pictures, stories and interesting statistics from your alumni! Prospective students are inclined to believe what 'success stories' indicate when submitted by former students. Let them shine as the best representatives of your program. Encourage your happy customers to tell their story!
- 6. Online outreach through events/calendar sections or community listservs and message boards are a great way to get the word out.
- 7. Likewise, use press releases to announce the results of all course promotions or other events to your local newspaper to be printed in the community interest section. Connect with your local media often. Education is always a hot topic! Make sure they know about your programs, how to reach you and what's going on at your site that's newsworthy or of interest to their audience.
- 8. Donate to auctions and charitable events: Many schools and organizations have silent auctions to raise money. Donate a few single courses or specialty courses such as 'retirement planning' or fitness classes. The exposure for your school at the event can be very beneficial in getting your name out in the community.
- 9. Partner with members of the community to offer programs, including other K-12 and alternative schools. Don't be shy in asking members of the community including businesses to help promote your programs and refer students to your classes.
- 10. Use your printed newsletter, calendar, bulletin boards -both internally and externally to drive home the benefits of the education you offer. Paper flyers are sometimes just the marketing relief people like to see in our paperless and electronic world lately! Make sure they're eye-catching!

California Adult Schools: Learning for Life

The dream of a single, easily recognized identity for adult schools in California became a reality in the fall of 2009 with the introduction of the first California Adult Schools brand. The new brand was created by the California State Consortium for Adult Education (CSCAE) under the guidance of some of California's most capable and experienced adult school administrators. The intent was to promote greater awareness of adult school programs and services among the general public and education decision-makers.

The brand name, of course, is California Adult Schools and the tag line is "Learning for Life." The three brand messages, created by a group of leading adult education administrators, are:

1. California Adult Schools develop skilled workers, strong families and successful communities by offering opportunities to learn at every stage of life.
2. California Adult Schools make it convenient and affordable for all students to reach their educational, training, career and personal goals.
3. With flexible schedules and convenient locations, the 370 California Adult Schools, which focus on personal as well as professional development, are accessible to more potential students than any other California adult education provider.

New California Adult Schools Website

Central to the branding strategy is a new public website at <http://californiaadultschools.org>, which has been designed to:

- Extend the California Adult Schools brand to the online medium
- Direct prospective students to their local California Adult School
- Serve as a central source of news and information about California Adult Schools
- Reinforce key marketing messages and broadcast them to target audiences
- Make adult education real and attainable for potential students—demonstrate what can be achieved through adult education
- Provide an Internet presence for schools that do not have the budget to build their own websites.

The main feature of the new website is a school locator map, which allows site visitors to enter a zip code and find the California Adult Schools in their area. The website includes profiles of every adult school in the state, with the ability for school staff to update their information at any time. Student stories, program descriptions, and news articles add depth to the user experience. Among the website's other features are downloadable public relations and marketing tools such as generic press releases and public service announcements which help schools promote adult school events such as Drop-In Day and Adult Education Week.

All California Adult Schools are encouraged to use the brand logo and brand messages on their own websites, course catalogs, brochures, stationery, business cards, signage, coffee cups, polo shirts, etc. The more schools that adopt the branding elements, the greater will be the benefit to the entire adult education community. A digital brand kit, available at the website, contains all the files and guidelines needed to use the brand materials. Once you are acquainted with the brand elements, please make these three steps a priority:

1. Add the California Adult Schools logo to your course catalog, website, brochures, school letterhead, business cards, and other printed materials.

2. Add a link from your school website to <http://californiaadultschools.org>, to support our search engine marketing efforts.

3. Update your school profile on the California Adult Schools website, following the instructions provided in the digital brand kit.

To complete the foregoing steps requires a login ID and password to access your school's pages at <http://californiaadultschools.org>. To obtain these codes contact your school's lead administrator or email bob@gemut.com.

Branding Requires Funding: Support CSCAE

Creating and managing the new brand and website, publishing this directory and the newsletter California Adult Education Insider, requires the financial support of those that benefit from such services—the state's adult schools. Participation is voluntary and schools that choose to underwrite CSCAE services do so on the basis of $1 per each unit of ADA (1988/89 levels). Schools whose ADA is less than 100 pay a minimum fee of $100.

If your school would like to participate please phone CSCAE at 541-488-8462 or email bob@gemut.com.

California Adult Schools
LEARNING FOR LIFE

Make Sure Your School's Information is Correct

This directory was created from information contained in the master adult school database located at <http://californiaadultschools.org>. Each school is responsible for maintaining its own information online. This is done by logging on to the website, entering the school's unique access codes and then making the necessary changes. On October 23, 2009, the information contained in the database was downloaded and used to create this directory. Changes made after that date are not reflected herein.

The codes which allow each school to change its data online are distributed by regular mail and email each year in September. However, schools that can't remember or have lost their codes can obtain them by sending an email request to bob@gemut.com.

CSCAE Honor Roll of California Adult Schools

The activities of CSCAE, such as compiling and reproducing the information in this directory, require funding. Financial participation in CSCAE is voluntary and each year all California adult schools are invoiced for their fair share based on ADA. Schools can choose to help underwrite these activities - the new California Adult School brand and its new website, the Insider newsletter, the annual directory, PR materials for such events as Drop-In Day and Adult Education Week - or not. Listed below are the schools that, in the last three years, have stepped forward with their financial support.
